Company of the United States with Canada
Lie shows from the Canada shown from the standpoint of the United States in a series of tables included in the annual report of the chief of the Bureau of Siatistics, just made public by the Department of Commerce and Labor, while tables also received by the Bureau of Statistics from the Canadan government present a picture of that trade from the Canadian standpoint, Curiously, while the two statements relate to the same trade and are presented for fiscal years which terminate in each discal years which terminate in each case on June 30, the figures of value difer materially.

The statement of the United States exports to Canade for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904, shows a total of $131,-274,346, while the Canadian statement of imports from the United States which should include only the articles classified as exports from the United States in Canada, shows a total value of such imports of $143,09,578, or a total 12 million dollars greater than the United States is the canadian and United States figures for other years also shows a material difference of statement. In the fiscal year 1903 the Canadian figures of imports from the United States state of States where the figures for the figures of the United States showing exports to Canada, and this is true of the figures for the fiscal year 1902.

This fact that the Canadian statement of imports from the United States exceeds in total the statement of exportafrom the United States to Canada from the United States with the import figures of the United States when exported. A striking illustration of this general fact is found in some figures recently compiled by the Bureau of Statistics, which showed the total importations from the United States of $1,590,000,000, while the United States of $1,590,000,000, while the United States of $1,590,000,000, while the United States of the world's imports from the United States of $1,590,000,000, while the United States for the United States for the United States for the United States for the United States of the William of the States of the United States of

CHOICE OF TUCKER IS NOTEWORTHY

Virginian's Father Was Also President of American Bar Association.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., September 29.-The election of Hon, Harry St. George Tucker to the presidency of the American Bar Association is unique in more than one respect. In the first place, Mr. Tucker is the first man to be elected to than one respect. In the first place, Mr. Tucker is the first man to be elected to the position, whose father held the place. Hon, John Randolph Tucker was for one term the president of the national association, and was for many years a leading member. In the second place, it is not believed that there is any other State which enjoys the distinction of having twice furnished a president of the association. Virginia alone has the honor, it is said, thought it is possible that there have been presidents fro mthe same State in other instances.

The parallel between the career of John Randolph Tucker and his son is remarkable. Each served as a law teacher in Washington and Lee University; each represented the Tenth Virginia District in Congress, and each was elected to the high position of presiding officer of the American Bar Association. Tucker pere wrote a work on constitutional law, but he died before it was quite ready for the publisher, and, as if fate were determined to keep the career of father and son closely identified. Harry St. George Theker completed the work and saw it through the press.

There are few instances in the history of Virginia, or of the country, where tonors which have come to father and son are so nearly identical.

Denver Meets Requirements.
